

Other Birds* by Sarah Addison Allen

On the small coastal town of Mallow Island, South Carolina is a small apartment building tucked away and full of characters and secrets. Author Sarah Addison Allen paints a vivid picture of the residents of this community as they get to know one another. The book starts with young Zoey moving into the apartment she inherited from her mother. Zoey is on her own – having been shunted aside by her father and his new family. An engaging and curious spirit, Zoey sets out to get to know her new neighbors – whether they want her to or not. A tragedy happens soon after her arrival, and it sets forth a series of situations which brings the residents together and forms a new family for Zoey.

Sarah Addison Allen is the author of six books – all set in the southeast. Her books have elements of tragic circumstances, romance, hope, community, and a touch of magic. Truly heart-warming for our approaching fall season!