

Scarlet in Blue*, Jennifer Murphy

At age 15, Blue has spent most of her life running from one town to the next with her mother, whenever her mother sees a person from her past that she fears is tracking them down. Changing names as they go from town to town, their new names come from throwing out a box of crayon and choosing their new name from the colors that appear. Blue (previously Maize) is now in South Haven Michigan with her mother Scarlet. Scarlet is an artist, a truly skilled painter, and she can make enough money to keep them in a dumpy house, as well as covering their food and Scarlet's visits to Henry, a psychoanalyst. What Blue doesn't know is that Scarlet has chosen South Haven for a very specific reason.

Scarlet in Blue is told from 3 viewpoints, those of Scarlet (mother), Blue (the 15 year old daughter), and Henry (Scarlet's psychoanalyst).
