

Uncommon Threads by John Wieland

John Wieland is a local business owner, the CEO of MH Equipment. Under John's leadership MH has gone from a small, nearly bankrupt company to employing over 900 people across the mid-west. His business philosophy is also his life philosophy- business, faith and family are interwoven and each area affects the success of all three.

Uncommon Threads is a bit business, a bit biography and a bit inspirational. Using his own life as the storyline, this book is filled with success and failure and John's determination to grow from his mistakes. As a local businessman, many of his stories are closely tied to Peoria and surrounding communities, which kept me involved in his book until the final pages.
