

Wolf's Coming* by Joe Kulka

The sun is setting in the wood and Wolf is coming out. All the woodland creatures need to hurry home, shut their doors, and turn out the lights because Wolf is on his way, and he's hungry. Quick, quick! Make sure you're out of sight! Make sure that Wolf can't see you...

But there is a twist at the end that is sure to surprise and delight children of every age!

I loved this book so much! For a picture book, it was absolutely thrilling and enthralling, and kept me interested until the very end. The tension ramped up in just the right spots because you KNEW Wolf was coming and it is so very obvious why everyone needs to hurry home and hide... Only that isn't for the reason you think it is at all! The surprise ending was an absolute delight that had me grinning when I turned the last page. While not exactly interactive, I feel that this picture book falls into the instant classic pile along with The Monster at the End of this Book. I'm sure that both parents and children will love reading this story over and over again... and then just one more time.
